

Reducing the chances of young people in care getting involved in crime

Information about a new guide by Welsh Government

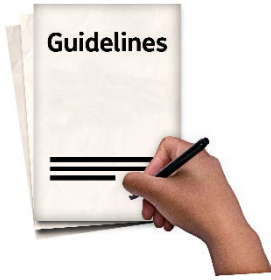

The local council must make sure children and young people in care are kept safe.

For some young people this can be up to the age of 25.

Sometimes, children and young people in care get involved in crime. We want to do all we can to stop this from happening.

We have put together a guide to help organisations work with children and young people in the best ways.

This will help lower the risk of getting involved in crime.

And we want children and young people in care to know about this guide. So they know what it means for them.

For more information please click here:
<https://gov.wales/reducing-criminalisation-children-care-and-care-leavers-all-wales-protocol>